9 Plaintiffs,

Case No. 2:04-cv-01304-MMD-CWH

10 v.
11 ALASKA AIRLINES, INC.,

12 Defendant.

13 ORDER

(Motions in Limine
– dkt. nos. 283, 284, 286, 288)

(Request to File a Reply Brief to Defendant's Opposition to Motion to Exclude Certain FBI Evidence
– dkt. no. 298)

14 15 I. SUMMARY

16 Before the Court is Defendant Alaska Airlines, Inc.'s ("Alaska Airlines") Motion in 17 Limine to Exclude Evidence and Testimony Related to Medical Causation (dkt. no. 283).
18 Also before the Court are Plaintiffs' Motions in Limine to Exclude Evidence or Comment 19 on Plaintiff Rasikh's Post-Egyptian Revolution Legal Defenses (dkt. no. 284); to Exclude 20 Evidence of an Alleged Incident at a Hotel in Vancouver, Canada (dkt. no. 286); and to 21 Exclude Evidence of FBI Investigation Past October 1, 2003 (dkt. no. 288).

22 II. BACKGROUND

23 Plaintiffs are nine passengers who traveled on an Alaska Airlines flight from 24 Vancouver, British Columbia to Las Vegas, Nevada, on September 29, 2003. Plaintiffs 25 allege that three employees of Defendant Alaska Airlines, a captain and two flight 26 attendants, accused all nine Plaintiffs of criminal interference with an air crew.
27 Defendant's employees diverted the aircraft to Reno, NV, and ejected Plaintiffs from the 28 flight.

1 Plaintiffs filed their original complaint nearly eight years ago, on September 17, 2 2004. On remand from the Ninth Circuit, Plaintiffs filed a Second Amended Complaint 3 ("SAC") on March 19, 2012. (Dkt. no. 226.) The SAC contains one cause of action for 4 violation of the Warsaw Convention, Article 19, and eight defamation causes of action.

6 III. PLAINTIFFS' REQUEST TO FILE A REPLY BRIEF TO DEFENDANT'S 7 OPPOSITION TO PLAINTIFFS' MOTION TO EXCLUDE CERTAIN FBI 8 EVIDENCE (dkt. no. 298.)

9 Plaintiffs filed a Request to File a Reply Brief to Defendant's Opposition to 10 Plaintiffs' Motion to Exclude Certain FBI Evidence. (Dkt. no. 298.) Plaintiffs attached the 11 Reply Brief to their Request. (Dkt. no. 298-1.) The Reply did not introduce any 12 significant evidence, but merely responded to Defendant's Opposition arguments. The 13 Reply Brief is too long. See LR 7-4. It is 24 pages, and Reply Briefs must be 20 pages 14 unless the parties request permission to file excess pages. Id. Plaintiffs are instructed 15 to abide by the page limitations in the future. However, the Court found the Reply useful 16 in reaching its ultimate determination on the Motion, and considered portions of the Brief 17 in reaching its conclusion. Plaintiffs' Request is therefore granted.

18 IV. MOTION IN LIMINE LEGAL STANDARD

19 A motion in limine is a procedural device to obtain an early and preliminary ruling 20 on the admissibility of evidence. Black's Law Dictionary defines it as "[a] pretrial request 21 that certain inadmissible evidence not be referred to or offered at trial. Typically, a party 22 makes this motion when it believes that mere mention of the evidence during trial would 23 be highly prejudicial and could not be remedied by an instruction to disregard." Black's 24 Law Dictionary 1109 (9th ed. 2009). Although the Federal Rules of Evidence ("FRE") do 25 not explicitly authorize a motion in limine, the Supreme Court has held that trial judges 26 are authorized to rule on motions in limine pursuant to their authority to manage trials.
27 Luce v. United States, 469 U.S. 38, 41 n.4 (1984).

28 A motion in limine is a request for the court's guidance concerning an evidentiary question. See Wilson v. Williams, 182 F.3d 562, 570 (7th Cir. 1999). Judges have broad

1 discretion when ruling on motions in limine. See Jenkins v. Chrysler Motors Corp., 316
2 F.3d 663, 664 (7th Cir. 2002). However, a motion in limine should not be used to resolve 3 factual disputes or weigh evidence. See C & E Servs., Inc., v. Ashland, Inc., 539 F.
4 Supp. 2d 316, 323 (D.D.C. 2008). To exclude evidence on a motion in limine “the 5 evidence must be inadmissible on all potential grounds.” See, e.g., *Ind. Ins. Co. v. Gen.
6 Elec. Co.*, 326 F. Supp. 2d 844, 846 (N.D. Ohio 2004). “Unless evidence meets this high 7 standard, evidentiary rulings should be deferred until trial so that questions of 8 foundation, relevancy and potential prejudice may be resolved in proper context.”
9 Hawthorne Partners v. AT & T Tech., Inc., 831 F. Supp. 1398, 1400 (N.D. Ill. 1993). This 10 is because although rulings on motions in limine may save “time, costs, effort and 11 preparation, a court is almost always better situated during the actual trial to assess the 12 value and utility of evidence.” Wilkins v. Kmart Corp., 487 F. Supp. 2d 1216, 1219 (D.
13 Kan. 2007).

14 In limine rulings are provisional. Such “rulings are not binding on the trial judge 15 [who] may always change his mind during the course of a trial.” Ohler v. United States, 16 529 U.S. 753, 758 n.3 (2000); accord Luce, 469 U.S. at 41 (noting that in limine rulings 17 are always subject to change, especially if the evidence unfolds in an unanticipated 18 manner). “Denial of a motion in limine does not necessarily mean that all evidence 19 contemplated by the motion will be admitted to trial. Denial merely means that without 20 the context of trial, the court is unable to determine whether the evidence in question 21 should be excluded.” Ind. Ins. Co., 326 F. Supp. 2d at 846.

22 V. DEFENDANT’S MOTION TO PRECLUDE PLAINTIFFS OR LAY WITNESSES 23 FROM PROVIDING MEDICAL OR EXPERT TESTIMONY REGARDING THE 24 CAUSE OF PLAINTIFFS’ MEDICAL OR MENTAL CONDITIONS (dkt. no. 283.)

25 Six of the nine plaintiffs claim they suffered a variety of ailments as a result of the 26 September 29, 2003, incident and its aftermath. Defendant argues that none of these 27 Plaintiffs have produced medical documents or a written doctor opinion regarding their 28 medical ailments. Defendant requests that the Court preclude Plaintiffs from testifying

1 regarding the cause of Plaintiffs' ailments, as well as any statements Plaintiffs' doctors 2 told them to that effect.

3 Plaintiffs inform the Court that they do not intend to testify as to their injuries 4 based on scientific, technical, or other specialized knowledge. Nor do Plaintiffs intend to 5 testify to statements their doctors made to them.

6 Plaintiffs may, of course, testify regarding physical, mental, or emotional 7 symptoms they have experienced under Fed. R. Evid. 601. In fact, "a lay witness" may 8 testify about "her personal knowledge about the emotional distress, the time of its onset, 9 and its symptoms, which may be used by the finder of fact to find the requisite causation, 10 if it exists." Boren v. Harrah's Entm't Inc., No. 2:08-CV-00215, 2010 WL 4340641, at *2 11 (D. Nev. Oct. 26, 2010). Plaintiffs may not testify regarding the medical cause of their 12 ailments. However, "[j]ust because a lay witness cannot testify about his opinion as to 13 the causation of the emotional distress does not mean that a plaintiff cannot testify about 14 the surrounding facts which prove a causal link between the alleged wrong and the 15 alleged damage, even without an expert." Id.

16 Therefore, Defendant's Motion is granted in part. Plaintiffs may not testify as to 17 the medical cause of their ailments, nor may they testify about statements their doctors 18 made to them. Plaintiffs may testify regarding factual matters and opinions within their 19 personal knowledge, including emotional, mental, and physical symptoms they 20 personally suffered. See Boren, 2010 WL 4340641, at *2.

21 Further, in footnote 1 of its Motion, Defendant moves to preclude testimony from 22 Dr. Julieta Guevara under Fed. R. Civ. P. 37, because Ms. Guevara was not properly 23 disclosed to Defendant. "A footnote is the wrong place for substantive arguments on the 24 merits of a motion . . .," First Advantage Background Servs. Corp. v. Private Eyes, Inc., 25 569 F. Supp. 2d 929, 935 (N.D. Cal. 2008), and is similarly the wrong place to make a 26 motion. This Motion is denied.

1 VI. PLAINTIFFS' MOTION TO EXCLUDE EVIDENCE REGARDING PLAINTIFF M.
2 MAGDY H. RASIKH'S POST-EGYPTIAN REVOLUTION LEGAL DIFFICULTIES
3 (dkt. no. 284.)

4 Plaintiff Rasikh may not appear at trial. He has been sentenced to five years in 5 an Egyptian prison, and currently cannot travel. Plaintiffs request that the Court preclude 6 Defendant from introducing evidence regarding the reasons for Rasikh's absence, if he 7 does not appear at trial. Should Rasikh appear at trial, Plaintiffs request that the Court 8 preclude Defendant from introducing evidence of Rasikh's post-Egyptian Revolution 9 legal difficulties. Plaintiffs bring their Motion under Fed. Rs. Evid. 402 and 403.

10 Defendant states that it does not currently intend to introduce evidence of 11 Rasikh's in absentia conviction given the due process concerns surrounding the 12 conviction. However, Defendant requests that the Court decline from making a ruling on 13 this matter until trial, because the Court will then know whether or not Rasikh will be 14 present.

15 The Court agrees with Defendant that it should defer any decision regarding this 16 evidence until trial. Because Rasikh may or may not be at trial, it is premature to rule on 17 the admissibility of the evidence Plaintiffs move to exclude. Plaintiffs' Motion is denied.

18 VII. PLAINTIFFS' MOTION TO EXCLUDE EVIDENCE OF AN ALLEGED INCIDENT
19 AT A HOTEL IN VANCOUVER, CANADA (dkt. no. 286.)

20 Marian Burford was a passenger on Plaintiffs' flight, and claims to have witnessed 21 a passenger, now known to be Reda Ginena, ignoring two flight attendants who asked 22 him to sit down.

23 Plaintiffs move to exclude only a portion of Burford's testimony. Burford testified 24 that she saw Reda in an altercation with a buffet hostess earlier in the day on September 25 29, 2003, before the plane flight at issue. Burford testified in her deposition that Reda 26 spoke harshly to the hostess and made the hostess cry. Plaintiffs move to exclude this 27 portion of Burford's testimony under Fed. R. Evid. 403 and 404(b)(1). Plaintiffs also 28 move to exclude other evidence regarding this alleged altercation, which was included in 29 the Cabin Safety Reports of Defendant's employees Duus and Maykuth.

1 Defendant counters that it is offering Burford's testimony regarding the altercation 2 for the limited and legitimate purpose of explaining why Burford recognized Reda on the 3 flight and why she was particularly attentive towards his conduct on board.

4 A. Rule 404(b)

5 The parties agree that Rule 404(b) precludes Burford from testifying about Reda's 6 behavior during the altercation to show that while on the plane Reda acted in 7 accordance with a character trait for rudeness or hostility. However, Defendant argues 8 that it is not using the evidence for an impermissible character purpose, but rather to 9 demonstrate that Burford can identify Reda. The evidence is admissible for this 10 purpose. However, as described below, this evidence is of very low probative value in 11 light of the other available identifying evidence.

12 B. Rule 403

13 Under Federal Rule of Evidence 403, relevant evidence may be excluded if its 14 probative value is substantially outweighed by the danger of unfair prejudice, confusion 15 of the issues, or misleading the jury.

16 Plaintiffs argue that the evidence is unduly prejudicial, will lead to a mini-trial on 17 Reda's character, and that because Burford saw Reda at the airline gate as well as at 18 the hotel buffet, there exists other evidence for Burford to properly identify Reda.

19 The Court agrees with Plaintiffs that evidence of Reda speaking harshly with a 20 buffet hostess will unfairly prejudice him with the jury. There is a high degree of 21 probability that the jury will use the information, not only for the admissible purpose of 22 understanding Burford's ability to identify Reda, but also for the inadmissible purpose of 23 drawing inferences about Reda's character for rude or hostile behavior. Rule 403 is 24 meant to safeguard against such results. The Court further agrees with Plaintiffs that, 25 because there is conflicting evidence regarding when Burford saw the altercation (the 26 morning of the 29th or in the evening a few nights prior), this heightens the threat of a 27 mini-trial on the issue.

28 ///

1 The Court disagrees with Defendant that the evidence of the buffet altercation is 2 highly probative for establishing Burford's ability to identify Reda. The relevant 3 identification here is whether Burford can identify Reda at trial as the man who had the 4 disagreement with the flight attendants on Flight 694. It is unimportant whether Burford 5 saw Reda at any point before she saw him on the plane for the purposes of 6 identification. Thus, while the evidence of the buffet altercation is minimally relevant to 7 the identification at issue, it is cumulative and unnecessary in light of the fact that Burford 8 witnessed the incident on the airplane. Because of the evidence's probability for unfairly 9 prejudicing the jury, and because other, less prejudicial evidence exists to establish the 10 identification, the buffet altercation evidence is not admissible for identification purposes.

11 The buffet altercation evidence is also relevant to establish Burford's credibility.
12 The jury is more likely to believe Burford's story that she listened in and paid particular 13 attention to the incident on the plane if it is presented with evidence that Burford had 14 seen Reda being similarly gruff with a staff-person on an earlier occasion. However, this 15 evidence is of minimal probative value, especially in light of other available evidence.
16 Burford testified in her deposition that she heard one flight attendant ask Reda to sit 17 down three times, and another ask him to sit down one time, before he sat down. It is 18 credible that an eye witness to such an event, even seated several rows behind that 19 person, would pay close attention to the event and remember it. Moreover, Burford will 20 also testify that she had previously seen Reda at the airline gate, which lends greater 21 credibility to her testimony.

22 Because it is likely that the evidence of the hotel altercation will unfairly prejudice 23 the jury to make impermissible inferences about Reda's character, and is of minimal 24 probative value in light of other available evidence, the Court grants Plaintiffs' Motion in 25 Limine to exclude the evidence.

1 VIII. PLAINTIFFS' MOTION IN LIMINE TO EXCLUDE EVIDENCE OF FBI
2 INVESTIGATION PAST OCTOBER 1, 2003 (DKT. NO. 288)

3 A. Background

4 Plaintiffs move to exclude evidence of the FBI investigation of Plaintiffs after 5 October 1, 2003. Plaintiffs will introduce evidence of the investigation before that date.
6 Plaintiffs plan on introducing evidence that, after interviewing Plaintiffs and witnesses 7 aboard Flight 694, the Joint Terrorist Task Force ("JTTF") determined that no terrorism 8 nexus existed. The report also states that "Las Vegas considers this lead covered."
9 However, though it found no terrorism nexus, the FBI investigation of Plaintiffs' behavior 10 aboard the flight continued for several months after October 1, 2003. This is the 11 evidence Plaintiffs seek to exclude.

12 In its proposed Pretrial Order (dkt. no. 285), Defendant informed the Court that it 13 will introduce evidence of the FBI's three and a half month investigation into potential 14 charges for interference with flight crew. Defendant plans on introducing evidence that 15 the FBI issued a prospective report as to Plaintiffs Reda and Amre Ginena, but the U.S.
16 Attorney's office declined prosecution. (Id.)

17 Specifically, Plaintiffs request that the Court (1) exclude any evidence that the FBI 18 continued its investigation of Plaintiffs after October 1, 2003; and (2) evidence regarding 19 the timing or reasons for the U.S. Attorney's decision to decline prosecution, including 20 Defendant's Exhibits 21, 22, and the FBI memoranda of November 11, 2003, and March 21 10, 2004. The evidence Plaintiffs seek to exclude includes, but is not limited to:

- 22 • A November 20, 2003 memorandum from Special Agent Duffer 23 states that the United States Attorney's Office in Reno is "[s]till 24 considering whether prosecution should be brought in this 25 instant matter. . . . Currently there is still confusion as to 26 whether a federal violation has actually been committed or not."
- 27 • A January 28, 2004 memorandum from Special Agent Duffer, 28 stating in part: "the number of subjects in this case have been reduced to two from the original nine listed," and "the investigation is complete and a Prosecutive Report is being prepared to present to the United States Attorney's Office" and that "the subsequent decision by the United States Attorney's Office will also be made known to the Bureau."

1 • A partially-redacted January 29, 2004 FBI prospective report
 2 regarding the investigation of Reda and Amre Ginena on Alaska 3 Flight 694, sent to the United States Attorney's Office in Reno.

3 B. Relevance and Rule 403¹

4 1. Tokyo Convention Defense

5 Defendant argues that evidence of the FBI's investigation into whether Plaintiffs 6 criminally interfered with Flight 694's crew is relevant to its Tokyo Convention defense to 7 Plaintiffs' Warsaw Convention cause of action. Defendant contends that the evidence of 8 the investigation is relevant towards establishing that Captain Swanigan had reasonable 9 grounds to believe that a first class passenger had committed, or was about to commit, 10 an act which may or did jeopardize the safety of the aircraft or the person therein, or 11 which may or did jeopardize the good order or discipline aboard the aircraft. This 12 defense is articulated in Tokyo Convention Articles 1 and 6. Defendant also argues that 13 the FBI investigation is relevant towards establishing that Captain Swanigan had 14 reasonable grounds to believe that Plaintiffs had committed an act in contravention of 15 the laws of the United States, and therefore had reasonable grounds to divert the 16 airplane and deliver Plaintiffs to the local authorities. This defense is articulated in Tokyo 17 Convention Article 9.

18 Defendant argues that if it were so obvious that Plaintiffs had not committed a 19 crime, the FBI would not have taken months to investigate the incident. Therefore, 20 evidence of the investigation is relevant to whether Captain Swanigan had "reasonable 21 grounds to believe" that any of the Plaintiffs had committed, or were about to commit, a 22 crime.

23 The Court agrees with Defendant that the FBI investigation evidence makes it 24 more likely than not that Captain Swanigan's decision to divert the plane was 25 reasonable. Under Federal Rule of Evidence 402, only relevant evidence is admissible.
 26 Under Federal Rule of Evidence, 401, evidence is relevant if (a) it has any tendency to 27 ¹Because the Court reaches its determination on Plaintiffs' Rules 401 and 403 28 arguments, it does not address Plaintiffs' law of the case argument.

1 make a fact more or less probable than it would be without the evidence; and (b) the fact 2 is of consequence in determining the action. The evidence relating to the FBI
3 investigation makes Defendant's Tokyo Convention defense – that Captain Swanigan 4 had a reasonable belief Plaintiffs were interfering with the safety of the aircraft and/or 5 passengers – more probable. Due to the FBI's inability to come to a conclusion for some 6 months, and its ultimate recommendation to prosecute two Plaintiffs, a reasonable juror 7 could draw the inference that Plaintiffs' on-board behavior was criminal. The fact that an 8 investigative body such as the FBI seriously considered whether Plaintiffs' behavior was 9 criminal therefore makes it more likely than not that the Captain's belief Plaintiffs violated 10 49 U.S.C. § 46504, infra note 2, was a reasonable belief. See Fed. R. Evid. 401.

11 However, the evidence is of minimal probative value. The evidence demonstrates 12 that FBI was unsure whether Plaintiffs violated 49 U.S.C. § 46504,² and the U.S.
13 Attorney's Office chose not to prosecute. None of the proffered evidence states that the 14 Captain was reasonable in his decision to divert Flight 694. More importantly, the FBI 15 investigation likely involved the FBI's assessment of much information not available to 16 Captain Swanigan at the time he made his decision – for example, interviews with 17 Plaintiffs, witnesses, and Defendant's employees.

18 This nominal probative value is far outweighed by the 403 dangers. The 19 evidence's potential to confuse the issues for the jury outweighs any probative value.
20 Plaintiffs are not on trial for committing any crime, but evidence of the FBI's uncertainty 21 about their guilt could lead a jury to consider Plaintiffs' guilt, and spend an inordinate 22 amount of time considering whether or not Plaintiffs violated 49 U.S.C. § 46504. This 24

25 ²The statute reads: "An individual on an aircraft in the special aircraft jurisdiction 26 of the United States who, by assaulting or intimidating a flight crew member or flight 27 attendant of the aircraft, interferes with the performance of the duties of the member or 28 attendant or lessens the ability of the member or attendant to perform those duties, or attempts or conspires to do such an act, shall be fined under title 18, imprisoned for not more than 20 years, or both. However, if a dangerous weapon is used in assaulting or intimidating the member or attendant, the individual shall be imprisoned for any term of years or for life."

1 evidence would also unfairly prejudice the jury, because Plaintiffs were not prosecuted, 2 but evidence that the FBI considered prosecuting them could very likely lead a jury to 3 think Plaintiffs did commit a crime. Because it invokes the prestige and authority of the 4 FBI and the United States Department of Justice, evidence of the FBI investigation is 5 obviously prejudicial as it gives merit to Defendant's assertion that Plaintiffs unlawfully 6 interfered with Flight 694.

7 2. Whether Remarks Were Negligently Made

8 Defendant argues that the FBI investigation evidence is relevant to whether any 9 Alaska Airlines employee was negligent in making the allegedly defamatory statements.
10 Plaintiffs assert that the statements falsely purport that they criminally interfered with the 11 flight crew. Defendant plans on introducing evidence of a November 20, 2003, 12 memorandum stating that the FBI and the U.S. Attorney's office could not determine 13 whether there had been a violation of the relevant statute, 49 U.S.C. § 46504, to defend 14 against Plaintiffs' negligence claim. To the same end, Defendant also plans on 15 introducing evidence that on January 29, 2004, the FBI issued a Prospective Report to 16 the U.S. Attorney, recommending that it consider prosecution of two plaintiffs.

17 However, the Court agrees with Plaintiffs that because actual malice is at issue, 18 negligence is not. (Dtk. no. 298-1 at n.1.) The mental state of negligence is subsumed 19 within the question of recklessness, see infra Part VIII(A)(2)(b). Moreover, in its 20 Opposition, Defendant fails to explain why the FBI's investigation and recommendations, 21 made several months after Defendant's allegedly defamatory statements, negates any 22 negligence on the part of Alaska Airline employees.

23 3. Actual Malice

24 Defendant further argues that evidence of the FBI investigation is relevant to 25 whether the author of the allegedly defamatory communications acted with "actual 26 malice" – whether they knew the statements were false, or wrote them with a reckless 27 ///

28 ///

1 disregard for the truth.³ Alaska Airlines argues that it should be able to introduce 2 evidence of the FBI's uncertainty regarding whether a crime was committed or not to 3 support its argument that its employees could not have known in the several days after 4 the incident that no crime had been committed by Plaintiffs. Plaintiffs argue that the FBI 5 investigation cannot be relevant on this point because malice is determined at the date 6 of publication.

7 Despite Defendant's arguments to the contrary, the Court agrees with Plaintiffs.
 8 The general rule is that actual malice "rests on the defendant's state of mind at the time 9 of publication." Sharon v. Time, Inc., 599 F. Supp. 538, 564 (S.D.N.Y. 1984) (citing Bose
 10 Corp. v. Consumers Union of United States, Inc., 466 U.S. 485, 512 (1984)). Though 11 Defendant argues there is no per-se rule that post-publication events cannot bear upon 12 what was known at the time of publication, Defendant provides no compelling reason for 13 parting with the general rule here. Had the FBI informed Alaska Airlines' employees that 14 Plaintiffs had, or might have, committed a crime before the employees made the 15 statements, this would certainly be compelling. It would bolster Defendant's evidence 16 that the employees did not know that their allegedly defamatory statements were false.
 17 But the FBI evidence here does not help establish that point. It does not go to 18 Defendant's employee's understanding of the truth of their statements.

20 4. Relevance to the Truth of Statements in the Chief Pilot's Newsletter

21 Defendant argues that the FBI investigation evidence is relevant to establish the 22 truth of the allegedly defamatory statement: "Now that the FBI has reviewed the case, 23 they believe these passengers also violated federal law and they will investigate the 24 case." Plaintiffs inform the Court that they do not claim that this statement is defamatory.
 25 (Dkt. no. 298-1 at 10.) Rather, the defamation claim is based on the following language: 26

27 ³Defendant contends that each of Plaintiffs' defamation claims is subject to a 28 qualified privilege. To overcome these privileges, Plaintiffs must prove that Defendant acted with "actual malice" as to each of them.

1 "I know many of us feel let down because these people were not arrested and also 2 puzzled and dismayed by the ability these same passengers had as they proceeded to 3 another airline, bought tickets and flew to their original destination." The FBI 4 investigation and subsequent decision not to charge any Plaintiffs with a crime is not 5 relevant to proving that there were grounds to arrest Plaintiffs. Although the FBI 6 recommended prosecution of two Plaintiffs, this does not establish that Defendant's 7 statement that the Plaintiffs should have been arrested on September 29, 2003, several 8 months before the FBI made its recommendation, was a true statement.

9 5. Relevant to Rebut Certain Factual Allegations

10 Defendant asserts that evidence of the FBI investigation is relevant to rebut 11 Plaintiffs' assertion that the investigation concluded on October 1, 2003, and that the FBI 12 agents who dealt directly with Plaintiffs were sweet, sympathetic, and apologetic towards 13 Plaintiffs. Defendant correctly argues that such evidence would be misleading, unfairly 14 make it appear to the jury as if the FBI was "on the Plaintiffs' side," and may violate the 15 principle of completeness. Therefore, the Court determines that Plaintiffs may only 16 introduce evidence of the pre-October 1, 2003, investigation for the purposes of 17 establishing the facts to support their causes of action. Plaintiffs may only introduce 18 evidence that the JTTF portion of the investigation was finished, and may not present 19 evidence establishing or inferring that the FBI investigation was completed on that date.
20 Plaintiffs also may not introduce evidence of the FBI's sweet, sympathetic, and/or 21 apologetic treatment. Should Plaintiffs offer any of this evidence, the Court will 22 reconsider its decision on this Motion in Limine, and may allow Defendant to introduce 23 evidence of the FBI investigation after October 1, 2003.

24 6. Relevant towards Impeachment

25 Finally, Defendant opposes the Motion on impeachment grounds. See Fed. R.
26 Evid. 613. Defendant states that the FBI file contains witness statements prepared from 27 FBI interviews that may provide evidence inconsistent with witness testimony at trial.
28 Defendant fails to specify which witnesses, or how their statements are inconsistent with 1 their deposition or other testimony. The Court declines to make a sweeping preliminary 2 ruling on whether all post-October 1, 2003, evidence may be admissible for 3 impeachment purposes. It will address the evidence in a piecemeal fashion as the issue 4 arises, should it arise, during trial.

5 IX. CONCLUSION

6 IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that Defendant's Motion in Limine to Exclude 7 Evidence and Testimony Related to Medical Causation (dkt. no. 283) is GRANTED to 8 the extent herein described.

9 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Plaintiffs' Motion in Limine to Exclude Evidence 10 or Comment on Plaintiff Rasikh's Post-Egyptian Revolution Legal Defenses (dkt. no.
11 284) is DENIED.

12 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Plaintiffs' Motion in Limine to Exclude Evidence 13 of an Alleged Incident at a Hotel in Vancouver, Canada (dkt. no. 286) is GRANTED.

14 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Plaintiffs' Motion in Limine to Exclude Evidence 15 of FBI Investigation Past October 1, 2003 (dkt. no. 288), is GRANTED to the extent
